WETA Focus

Following on our superb September offerings, our October programming is equally riveting, with an array of outstanding WETA productions making their debut and additional wonderful programs scheduled just for you. This month, we are excited to premiere nationwide the engaging new film Making Black America: Through the Grapevine, a four-part WETA co-production from our friend and partner Henry Louis Gates, Jr. and his production team. This new history film spotlights the many networks and institutions that helped to sustain African Americans in the face of inequity and injustice — and how these cultural and social spaces transformed our nation. The fascinating series, the latest in the growing portfolio of WETA collaborations with Prof. Gates, debuts on Tuesday nights.

In other programming, we present a powerful new report about the impact of gun violence in our nation in the program Ricochet: An American Trauma, the latest in our series of PBS NewsHour specials. Correspondent William Brangham hosts.

On Mondays, we roll out five new episodes of our popular local series Signature Dish, created exclusively for viewers in Greater Washington. In the production, WETA producer and host Seth Tillman explores the enormously vibrant, diverse restaurant scene in the national capital area, showcasing amazing dishes and inviting establishments. The series will inspire your own culinary explorations.

Also enjoy an exceptional lineup of new Sunday-night Masterpiece dramas, including the new adaptation Magpie Murders, from the creator of the beloved series Foyle's War. And join us in celebrating the 10-year anniversary of our WETA UK channel, which entertains Greater Washington with the very best of British programming, including stellar dramas and mysteries. Here's to many returns!

Thank you for your generous support of our service to the public.

WETA Arts: Awesome Con, Outwin Prize & More

WETA production airs Monday, Oct. 3 at 9:30 p.m. on WETA PBS,
8:30 p.m. on WETA Metro; stream on the PBS App

WETA production WETA Arts, hosted by Felicia Curry, in October delves into how D.C.-area residents and artists showcase their creativity through photography, portraiture, and even cosplay — the practice of dressing up as and inhabiting a character from a movie, book, or video game. Cosplay is a vital part of Awesome Con, Washington, D.C.'s Comic Con, a three-day celebration that attracts more than 70,000 attendees. Also on the program, viewers meet two local finalists in the National Portrait Gallery's triennial Outwin Boochever Portrait Competition, which celebrates excellence in the art of portraiture. Featured artists offer surprisingly diverse and varied perspectives on the art form in the U.S. today. In another segment, Exposed DC founder and board chair Heather Goss chats with Curry about how the local photography hub connects photographers of all levels with networking, mentoring and exhibition opportunities, including their annual Exposed DC Photography Show, which is accepting submissions from December through January for the 2023 competition.

New episodes of WETA's local production showcase delicious restaurant meals around Greater Washington

Mondays in October at 9 p.m. on WETA PBS and 8 p.m. on WETA Metro; stream on the PBS App

Foodies rejoice! Five new episodes of the popular WETA restaurant exploration series Signature Dish, hosted by Seth Tillman, air this month, spotlighting the top offerings of a wide array of vibrant local establishments. With featured dishes from Mexico, Europe, Korea and elsewhere, the programs reveal just how much of a global food destination the metro D.C. area has become. But in addition to flavors from around the world, the many varieties of iconic American foods also get their chance to shine.

In each episode, Seth — a D.C.-area native with a passion for great food — meets proprietors and chefs at three restaurants and explores the background of their amazing main dishes, celebrating the traditions, cultural influences and unique flavors that make each meal special. At right is a taste of what he spotlights this month as he travels through D.C., Maryland and Virginia, sampling delicious signature creations around the national capital region.

For restaurant locations, tune in — or see the Monday-night Signature Dish entries in the TV Listings pages. Missed a show? Catch up on the entire first season of Signature Dish — including episodes highlighting barbeque, pizza, fish head curry and West African cuisine — by streaming on the free PBS Video App or at weta.org/signaturedish. And stay tuned for another Season 1 episode of Signature Dish in November!

October 3 — Episode 7: Southern Comforts

Seth tastes BBQ spare ribs from Ruthie's All Day, duck jambalaya from Dauphine's, and a smokey brisket and bone marrow mac & cheese from Pennyroyal Station.

October 10 — Episode 8: Next-Level Sandwiches

Sandwiches take center stage: Seth enjoys a Guatemalan street sandwich at Nim Ali, a fried chicken sandwich at Open Crumb, and Fight Club's namesake sandwich.

October 17 — Episode 9: A Taste of Mexico

Bring on the tacos and tostadas! Seth tastes birria tacos at El Papi Real Street Tacos, the red mole at DC Corazon, and tuna tostadas from Taqueria Picoso.

NEW FILM FROM WETA PARTNER HENRY LOUIS GATES, JR.

The WETA co-production airs Tuesdays, Oct. 4, 11, 18 & 25 at 9 p.m. on WETA PBS & WETA Metro; stream on the PBS App

A fascinating new documentary series from WETA partner Prof. Henry Louis Gates, Jr. explores the vibrant cultural and social spaces at the heart of the Black experience in the United States. The four-part WETA co-production Making Black America: Through the Grapevine — executive-produced, written and hosted by Gates, the Alphonse Fletcher University Professor and Director of the Hutchins Center for African & African American Research at Harvard University — features the renowned scholar seeking out the networks that supported and nurtured Black families, institutions and community, and includes interviews with leading academics, scholars and experts. The series unfolds in hour-long weekly airings in October, illuminating an extraordinary world that showcased Black people's ability to collectively prosper, defy white supremacy and define Blackness in ways that transformed America itself.

“For centuries, ‘the Grapevine’ has connected Black Americans in formal and informal networks not just as a way of communicating but of building and sustaining communities large and small,” said Gates. “From churches to fraternal and sororal organizations to Black Twitter, this is the story of the making of Black America and how, in the making, a people did more than survive the onslaught of enslavement and segregation. They redefined America and its cultural gifts to the world.”

In this project, Gates collaborated with directors Stacey L. Holman and Shayla Harris, who recently worked together on Gates's previous documentary series, the WETA co-production The Black Church: This Is Our Story, This Is Our Song (2021). In describing the new film's focus,

Holman and Harris noted, “Throughout history, African Americans have created a dynamic community and culture that flourished beyond the color line.”

Making Black America celebrates the places and institutions that were built by and for Black people with hope and love, and were sustained by joy.

— Making Black America directors

Social Networks and Their Impact

Making Black America chronicles the vast social networks and organizations created by and for Black people beyond the reach of the “White gaze.” The documentary series recounts the arc of African American institutions, from the establishment of the Prince Hall Masons in 1775 through the formation of all-Black towns and business districts, Historically Black Colleges and Universities, destinations for leisure, and social media phenomena such as Black Twitter. To explore these networks and their impact, Gates discusses them with noted scholars, politicians, cultural leaders and friends, including journalist and commentator Charles M. Blow; political activist, scholar and author Angela Davis; actor André Holland; hip-hop pioneer and visual artist Fab 5 Freddy; chair of the Clive Davis Institute of Recorded Music, Jason King; and rapper and activist Killer Mike, to discuss this world behind the color line and what it looks like today.

A Preeminent Storyteller

Making Black America: Through the Grapevine is Gates's latest series for public media. He has produced a wide array of critically acclaimed documentary history series on the African and African American experience, including the Emmy and Peabody Award-winning documentary The African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross, the series African American Lives, and — with WETA — the films Black America Since MLK: And Still I Rise; Africa's Great Civilizations; and the Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Award-winning series Reconstruction: America After the Civil War. Gates's most recent documentary film project with WETA was the Emmy-nominated 2021 film The Black Church: This Is Our Story, This Is Our Song. Gates and WETA also collaborate on the genealogy series Finding Your Roots with Henry Louis Gates, Jr., which will return for its ninth season in January 2023.

Ricochet: An American Trauma, A PBS NewsHour Special Report

Wed, Oct. 5 at 10 p.m. on WETA PBS & WETA Metro;
stream on the PBS App

The latest in a series of public-interest documentaries, a new PBS NewsHour special report spotlights the gun violence crisis in the United States and the people it impacts. The one-hour WETA program, hosted by NewsHour correspondent William Brangham, explores common forms of gun violence in this country, as well as the far reach of the trauma of these events into the community. In 2020, more than 45,000 Americans died as a result of gun-related injuries, the highest number on record. Guns became the greatest cause of mortality for American children. So far this year, there have been over 400 mass shootings in the United States. The report features stories from a survivor of the Aurora theater shooting, loved ones who have been impacted by gun violence, community leaders, gun owners, and a frontline health worker, among others. Interviewees include Ryane Nickens, who lost family members to gun violence in Washington, D.C. and founded the TraRon Center, which helps families, and children in particular, cope with the trauma of gun violence.

Tubman & Douglass on WETA PBS & WETA Metro

Harriet Tubman: Visions of Freedom airs Tuesday, Oct. 4 at 10 p.m.

Becoming Frederick Douglass airs Tuesday, Oct. 11 at 10 p.m.

Premiering this month, two documentaries shed new light on the lives of a pair of towering figures in the struggle to end slavery. The films are directed by Oscar-nominated filmmaker Stanley Nelson and Nicole London. Harriet Tubman: Visions of Freedom (Oct. 4) spotlights the woman renowned as a conductor of the Underground Railroad, and for repeatedly risking her own life and freedom to liberate others. Born in Dorchester County, Maryland in 1822, Tubman escaped north in 1849 and joined the abolitionist movement. Actor Alfre Woodard narrates the Tubman film, and actor Wendell Pierce is the voice of Frederick Douglass in both productions.

Becoming Frederick Douglass (Oct. 11) presents the story of how a man born into slavery became one of the most prominent statesmen and influential voices for democracy in American history. Born in 1818 on Maryland's Eastern Shore, he escaped from slavery in 1838 and went on to lead the abolitionist movement. The film explores the role the gifted writer and charismatic orator played in securing the right to freedom and equality for African Americans.

New Premieres on NOVA

Wednesdays, 9 p.m. on WETA PBS & WETA Metro; stream on the PBS App

This month, the long-running weekly science series NOVA presents new episodes, spotlighting the reconstruction of Paris's renowned cathedral, examining the possible pitfalls of AI, exploring the use of psychedelic drugs in clinical settings to treat mental health conditions, and tracing the adverse impacts of an invasive species:

- Rebuilding Notre Dame (Oct. 5) goes behind the scenes with a team of engineers, masons and timber workers tackling the daunting challenges of restoring the historic Paris landmark, which was almost destroyed by fire in April 2019.
- Computers v. Crime (Oct. 12) asks, is artificial intelligence — now helping inform decisions about policing and criminal sentencing — making policing and courts fairer or increasing bias?
- Can Psychedelics Cure? (Oct. 19) examines how mind-altering drugs are unlocking new ways to treat conditions such as addiction and depression.
- Ocean Invaders (Oct. 26) highlights one of the ocean's most beautiful yet destructive species: lionfish. Long prized in home aquariums, they have invaded the Atlantic with catastrophic results.

New on Masterpiece in October

Miss Scarlet and the Duke, Series 2 at 8 p.m.; Magpie Murders at 9 p.m.; Annika at 10 p.m. starting Sunday, Oct. 16 on WETA PBS and WETA Metro; stream on the PBS App

With episodes of Van der Valk concluding October 9, WETA features three new Masterpiece productions starting the following Sunday. Each featuring six parts, the dramas run through November 20.

- Victorian-era crime series Miss Scarlet and the Duke returns with a new season of cases featuring London's dynamic duo. Kate Phillips stars as pioneering female private detective Eliza Scarlet and Stuart Martin portrays her hot-tempered friend, natural-born crimebuster Inspector William "The Duke" Wellington of Scotland Yard. The sometimes-dueling, sometimes-flirting detectives tackle a cavalcade of investigations, among them the search for a missing drawing by Charles Darwin, a murder that Eliza realizes mimics the plot of a mystery novel, a product-poisoning scheme, and a grave-robbing conspiracy. Along with the help (or hindrance) of the Duke, Eliza is aided by a cast of colorful characters. Before Series 2 starts, WETA reprises Series 1 all day October 16 starting at 11:30 a.m.

- Magpie Murders stars Academy Award-nominee Lesley Manville as book editor Susan Ryeland in Foyle's War writer Anthony Horowitz's adaptation of his own thrilling, bestselling novel. In the story, her irascible mystery author Alan Conway (Conleth Hill) dies under suspicious circumstances, with his last book seemingly unfinished. Thus, the series presents two mysteries: What happened to Alan? And how does his latest potboiler end? Susan, Alan's editor, assumes the role of detective in the case, taking place in the here and now. Meanwhile, Tim McMullan (Patrick Melrose) plays Atticus Pünd, the Poirot-like hero of the sleuth in the incomplete novel, whose investigation, set in 1955, parallels Susan's. The twin cases unfold together, cleverly blending present and past, fact and fiction.

- Contemporary police drama Annika stars Nicola Walker (Unforgotten, Last Tango in Halifax) as DI Annika Strandhed, the dry-witted, speedboat-driving skipper of Glasgow's newly formed Marine Homicide Unit. Confiding her thoughts directly to viewers, Annika juggles perplexing cases and a rebellious teenage daughter. The former are easier to solve than the latter. Walker is joined by Jamie Sives (Guilt) as DS Michael McAndrews, Annika's colleague; Katie Leung (Roadkill) as DC Blair Ferguson, the forensic brains behind the unit; and Ukweli Roach (Grantchester) as DS Tyrone Clarke, the new cop at the station.

Binge-watch Miss Scarlet and the Duke, Series 2 with WETA Passport as of the night of October 16. Stream Magpie Murders episodes with WETA Passport two weeks after each program premieres. Annika is currently available for binge-viewing with WETA Passport.

Nature: Running with the Beest

Wednesday, Oct. 19 at 8 p.m. on WETA PBS & WETA Metro; stream on the PBS App

Witness the largest mass migration on the planet in the October 19 episode of Nature, which follows an extraordinary spectacle in East Africa: more than one million wildebeest, alongside zebra, gazelle and elands, journey in a quest to find fresh grass. The documentary, which kicks off the series' 41st season, follows two Maasai guides who highlight the problems — and solutions — facing millions of wildlife on their yearly migration. The pair have spent the last 10 years tracking the wildebeest as they migrate through Kenya's Mara ecosystem. The program reveals how climate change, tourism and modern-day conflicts are threatening the delicate balance between the environment and wildlife. For a look at a different ecosystem and its denizens, tune in to Nature: Canada: Surviving the Wild North on October 26.

Our Turn to Talk

Stream WETA digital-first film at WellBeings.org/film as of Oct. 3

A one-hour streaming documentary co-produced by WETA and Principle Pictures spotlights the mission to end stigma around mental health challenges, taking a deep dive into the personal lives of talented teens who, using storytelling, bravely share their mental health stories without fear or shame. Our Turn to Talk goes behind the scenes of a podcast production to hear youths discuss the impact on their mental health of social media, sexual identity, gender identity, racism and the pandemic. Follow the project on social media with #OurTurnToTalk. The production debuts as part of WETA's Well Beings campaign, a multi-year, multiplatform nationwide campaign to address the critical health needs in America and engage the public in conversations about health, including mental health. The campaign debuted in 2020 with the Youth Mental Health Project. Visit WellBeings.org/OurTurntoTalk to learn more about the film and its funders.

Magpie Murders on Masterpiece

Mysteries set in past and present unfold together in Anthony Horowitz's adaptation of his own novel. See page 5 for details. Stream episodes 2 weeks after each premiere.

Miss Scarlet and the Duke, Series 2 on Masterpiece

Victorian London's detective duo returns in a new season of cases. See page 5. Binge-watch as of the October 16 premiere.

Reilly, Ace of Spies • An epic drama series tells the true story of Sidney Reilly, the legendary super-spy who inspired James Bond. Sam Neill stars as the suave Reilly, who spied for Britain against his native Russia in the early 1900s. Against a backdrop of international politics and intrigue, the series depicts the life of this flamboyant, ruthless and brilliant agent. Binge-watch 12 episodes with WETA Passport as of October 20.

Rumpole of the Bailey, Season 1 • In John Mortimer's satirical drama spotlighting criminal law and the workings of the Old Bailey, Horace Rumpole is a barrister who spouts Wordsworth to himself and is famed among colleagues for his battered hat and general slovenliness — and for contending with his spouse, known as “She who must be obeyed.” Binge-watch six episodes with WETA Passport as of October 20.

RL ENTERTAINMENT/ACORN MEDIA

Foyle's War, Series 8

Fridays, Oct. 7 at 9:30 p.m. and
Oct. 14 at 8 p.m. on WETA UK

WETA UK features Series 8 of the acclaimed detective series starring Michael Kitchen (Out of Africa, Reckless), presenting three 90-minute mysteries set in the uncertain days at the beginning of the Cold War. In 1946 London, former Detective Chief Inspector Christopher Foyle employs his unerring investigative skills on behalf of MI5, assisted by his ever-faithful driver, Sam Wainwright (Honeysuckle Weeks). Episodes are High Castle, in which a translator for the Nuremberg trials is killed; Trespass, in which the son of a prominent Jewish man is assaulted as a right-wing manifesto inflames anti-Semitic tensions; and Elise, in which an assassination attempt is made on Hilda Pierce, and Foyle must examine her activities during the war — and rumors of a traitor.

Death in Paradise Christmas Special + Series 11

Wednesdays at 9 p.m. starting Oct. 5 on WETA UK

In October, WETA UK reprises Season 11 of the popular sun-soaked mystery series, which features more murder investigations with a light touch on the fictional Caribbean island of Saint Marie in the Lesser Antilles. But first, airing on October 5 and 12, is the two-part, first-ever Death in Paradise Christmas Special (2021), which follows a baffling murder probe, with a dazzling array of guest stars under suspicion. Starting October 19, in the eight Season 11 episodes, DI Neville Parker (Ralf Little), having warmed to the island lifestyle despite his many allergies, has more crimes to solve with his team, while also dealing with the emotional complications of working at close quarters with DS Florence Cassell (Joséphine Jobert).

Wallander Marathon

Saturdays at 7 p.m., Oct. 8, 15 & 22 on WETA UK;
stream with WETA Passport

On three Saturdays this month, WETA presents all four seasons — 12 episodes — of the Emmy- and BAFTA-winning crime drama Wallander, starring Academy Award-winning actor and filmmaker Sir Kenneth Branagh. The adaptation of author Henning Mankell's internationally bestselling mysteries (and Branagh's first recurring television role) follows scruffy, sensitive Swedish detective Inspector Kurt Wallander as he probes gritty murders. Filmed on location in southern Sweden (and later, Latvia as well), and set in the bucolic seaside town of Ystad, Wallander follows the middle-aged sleuth as he battles personal demons while solving heinous crimes. Binge-watch episodes with WETA Passport this month.

Also in October: WETA UK presents a special Mystery Weekend starting Friday, October 28 at 8 p.m. and running through Sunday, October 31. Friday night features Death in Paradise episodes; Saturday features selected mystery dramas; and Sunday features episodes of Endeavour, Inspector Morse and Lewis. Visit weta.org/schedule for shows and timings.

POV: The Last Out

Saturday, Oct. 8 at 8 p.m. on WETA Metro;
stream on the PBS App

POV explores the shadowy nexus of pro sports and the migrant trail in the acclaimed Cuban baseball documentary The Last Out. The film, airing as part of WETA's slate of Hispanic Heritage Month broadcasts (visit weta.org/hispanicheritage for listings), tells the inspiring story of three Cuban baseball players who risk exile to train in Central America as they chase their dreams of playing in the major leagues. Filmed over more than four years, the vérité film focuses on people caught between countries who want nothing more than to make a better life for their families, and chronicles their harrowing journey, from immigration obstacles to the broken promises of dubious agents. Against the odds, the young athletes try to hold onto their hope.

Scattering CJ

Saturday, Oct. 15 at 9:30 p.m. on WETA Metro;
stream on the PBS App

How do you best celebrate the life of a loved one? Plunged into years of unrelenting sorrow and guilt after losing her son CJ to suicide, in a moment of desperate inspiration, grieving mother Hallie Twomey put a call out on Facebook; her request: to honor her son's memory and love of travel by scattering his ashes in as many amazing places as possible. She hoped for a handful of travelers but the request went viral. More than 21,000 strangers liked the Facebook page, and 1,000 volunteers stepped up. Hear the story of how a global community congregated in solidarity and empathy, forming to scatter CJ's ashes in locations worldwide and helping Hallie find the peace and courage to become a powerful voice in the fight against suicide.

Independent Lens: TikTok, Boom.

Saturday, Oct. 29 at 8 p.m. on WETA Metro; stream on the PBS App

From Shalini Kantayya (Coded Bias) comes the documentary TikTok, Boom., a film nominated for the Grand Jury Prize at Sundance and an official selection at SXSW, examining the power and complexity of technology through the lens of one of the most influential platforms of the contemporary social media landscape, TikTok. The film dissects the platform along myriad cross-sections — algorithmic, socio-political, economic and cultural — in order to explore the impact of the app. A cast of Gen Z subjects is central to the film, balancing a genuine interest in the TikTok community and its innovative mechanics with a healthy skepticism around security issues, global political challenges, and racial biases behind the platform.

America ReFramed: La Manplesa

Thursday, October 6 at 8 p.m. on WETA World • On May 5, 1991, people took to the streets of Washington, D.C.'s Mount Pleasant neighborhood to protest the police shooting of a young Salvadoran man, Daniel Gomez. Through testimony, song, poetry, and street theater, La Manplesa: An Uprising Remembered weaves together the collective memory of one of D.C.'s first barrios and dives into the roots of the '91 rebellion. As people across the world take to the streets to demand an end to police brutality, the film honors the largely untold stories that have come before, and explores how artists prompt their audiences to remember what they still have to fight for. Stories From the Stage

Mondays at 9:30 p.m. in October on WETA World • A weekly series hosted by Wes Hazard and Theresa Okokon invites storytellers from around the world to share tales of what it means to be human. Each episode features on-stage performances and interviews about the meaning behind their stories. Growing Up Latina (Oct. 3) explores how being a young Latina means living within a varied global culture and having to navigate identity. One storyteller relates how friendship can cross all kinds of borders; another describes her last night at home before leaving Cuba forever; and Michele Carlo (left) turns lemons into lemonade when she's caught moonlighting during an internship at a major New York advertising agency. Also tune in to In the Name of Justice (Oct. 31), exploring how standing up for justice means encountering opposition. After a devastating gas explosion, Gladys Wangeci Gitau-Damaskos (left) helps her neighborhood fight back; other storytellers speak of switching careers to advocate for climate equity, and how a spontaneous protest sparked a media frenzy. Stream with WETA Passport.

Burning Questions: Covering Climate Now

Tuesday, October 25 at 8 p.m. on WETA World • Will we act in time to come to grips with climate change and work to mitigate its impacts? Extraordinary journalists report on stories of struggle and resilience from around the world as families from Iowa to Senegal lose everything they care about to drought, fire and rising seas. Co-hosted by NBC Today's Al Roker and NBC News' Savannah Sellers, this special program spotlights the many people living under threat as a result of climate change, exploring who is paying the price while world leaders dawdle and corporate interests resist change.

Music By Walker and Ravel on Front Row Washington

Mondays at 9 p.m. on WETA Classical

By John Banther, on-air host

Front Row Washington starts the month on October 3 with the American String Quartet in their 2022 concert at the Candlelight Concert Society in Columbia, Maryland, performing music by George Walker and Maurice Ravel.

Walker, a D.C. native, was born in 1927 and composed his passionate Lyric for Strings in 1946 originally as the second movement of his String Quartet No. 1, and it has endured as one of his most popular works. Ravel completed his Quartet in F Major in 1903 and the composition has since been a staple in the string quartet repertoire. Impressively, both works were written while the composers were students.

Also this month, tune in for exciting performances by the National Orchestral Institute Philharmonic, the Dublin Guitar Quartet, the Chiarina Chamber Players, and more. Join me for Front Row Washington each Monday at 9 p.m. on WETA Classical.

Lehár, Verdi & More on Opera Matinee

Saturdays at 1 p.m. on WETA Classical

By Linda Carducci, on-air host

With five Saturdays on the calendar in October, WETA Classical listeners can enjoy a wide range of operas on WETA Classical's weekly broadcast Opera Matinee. Franz Lehár's lighthearted The Merry Widow opens the month on October 1, in a production by China's National Centre for the Performing Arts, which also produced October 8's opera, A Village Teacher, written in 2009 by Chinese composer Hao Weiya and sung in Mandarin. Opera Festival of Chicago presents Il Corsaro, Giuseppe Verdi's drama of a seafaring pirate, on October 15, and Rossini's comedic romance, L'inganno felice (The Fortunate Deception), on October 22. Verdi's stunning masterwork — and audience favorite — Aida closes the month on October 29, with a production from LA Opera. Tune for Opera Matinee each Saturday at 1 p.m. on WETA Classical.

Elgar and Mahler Works on Choral Showcase

Sundays at 9 p.m. on WETA Classical

By Bill Bukowski, on-air host

Works both sacred — and spooky — are part of October's offerings on WETA Classical's Choral Showcase. On October 16, The Kingdom, part two of Sir Edward Elgar's projected trilogy on the beginnings of the early Church, relates how the ordinary lives of Jesus's disciples became extraordinary following the events of Pentecost. Sir Adrian Boult, who considered this Elgar's greatest oratorio, conducts. October 30 features a ghost story by Gustav Mahler, unique in his collected works. Das klagende Lied, "The Song of Lamentation," is a folk tale of sibling murder, brother against brother, rivals in a royal contest in which the story of the murdered brother is told through the song of a bone flute. Join me Sundays at 9 p.m. for the best in choral music on WETA Classical's Choral Showcase.

Exquisite Chamber Music on Center Stage from Wolf Trap

Saturdays at 9 p.m. on WETA Classical starting October 1

The delightful local chamber music series Center Stage from Wolf Trap commences a new season of broadcasts this month that run through April 8, airing Saturday evenings at 9 p.m. on WETA Classical. The series showcases live performances of some of today's finest chamber musicians — world-class artists and ensembles recorded in the concert series Chamber Music at The Barns at Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts in Fairfax County, Virginia.

The 26 broadcasts of the series are co-hosted by Lee Anne Myslewski, Vice President and head of the Wolf Trap Foundation for the Performing Art's Opera & Classical Programming Division, and longtime WETA on-air host Rich Kleinfeldt, who performs and tours as a member of the Washington Saxophone Quartet.

Each program focuses on a single chamber artist or group. This year's series is curated by musical artist Wu Han and features her in performances with her husband David Finckel — and with friends Arnaud Sussman, Philip Setzer, Paul Neubauer and Zhu Wang.
